

The Constitution of the United States allows for innocent until proven guilty. However the reporting system under FINRA is guilty until proven innocent. Until you completely overhaul the entire system you must continue to allow expungement proceedings to exist.