

FINRA,

I have been a broker since 1984. I applaud FINRA requiring disclosure of all bond commissions on the confirm. I think customers should know what they paid. However making it harder to expunge meritless complaints o a brokers record is improper. The complaint was not determined to be wrong by a court process. However it registers as wrong with everyone who views it. I think 60,000 brokers would wrongly be affected by stiffening the expungement process.

Be well,
