What is FINRA?
FINRA is the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority, a not-for-profit organization dedicated to investor protection and market integrity. It regulates one critical part of the securities industry – brokerage firms doing business with the public in the United States. FINRA, overseen by the SEC, writes rules, examines for and enforces compliance with FINRA rules and federal securities laws, registers broker-dealer personnel and offers them education and training, and informs the investing public. FINRA administers qualification examinations designed to establish that individuals employed by broker-dealers have attained specific levels of competence and knowledge pertinent to the industry.
