NASD Regulation Hearing Panel Fines Ko Securities And Its President For Illegal Short Selling

NASD Regulation announced that a disciplinary Hearing Panel has fined Ko Securities, Inc., together with its president, Terrance Yoshikawa, nearly $150,000 for short-selling more than 46,000 shares of EntreMed, Inc., on May 4, 1998, without first ascertaining that the stock in question could be borrowed or delivered. The panel also fined Ko Securities $15,000 for other violations of federal securities laws and NASD rules. Ko Securities is located in Seattle, Washington.

NASD's Affirmative Determination Rule requires that before a firm executes a short sale in a security in which it is not a bona fide market maker, it must make an affirmative determination that it can borrow or provide the securities for delivery by settlement date. The rule also requires that a member firm maintain a written record of such an affirmative determination.

On Sunday, May 3, 1998, The New York Times published an article stating that EntreMed had successfully completed clinical trials for two new drugs that appeared to cure cancer in mice. The following morning, May 4, EntreMed's share price soared, opening at $85, compared to a closing price of $12 on the preceding Friday. EntreMed stock traded over 23 million shares on May 4, closing at $51.823. This compares to just 19,150 shares on the previous trading day.

The Hearing Panel found that Ko Securities and Yoshikawa violated NASD's rules by selling short over 46,000 shares of EntreMed for the firm's account on May 4 without first determining that it could borrow EntreMed stock. The Panel's decision emphasized that the rule requires an NASD member to make and document an affirmative determination to protect the selling firm, the clearing firm, and the buyer. The panel rejected the claim that Ko had met the rule's requirements merely by covering the relevant short sales by day's end, and stated that Yoshikawa's defense was "wholly inconsistent with the underlying goals of 'additional discipline on short selling' and protecting marketplace integrity."

In assessing sanctions for the short-sale violations, the panel ordered Ko Securities and Yoshikawa to jointly pay a fine of $147,450, which includes the profits earned from the illegal short sales. The panel also fined Ko Securities $15,000 for violations of the Securities and Exchange Commission's record keeping rule and NASD's rule governing just and equitable principles of trade.

Ko Securities appealed the charges on November 5, and a cross appeal was filed by NASD Regulation's Enforcement Department on December 14.

NASD Regulation Sanctions Seven For Trade Or Move Violations

NASD Regulation has settled seven separate disciplinary actions against firms for violations of the NASD's Trade or Move Rule. The seven firms involved in these actions were censured and fined a total of $120,000.

The Trade or Move Rule applies to all securities listed on The Nasdaq Stock Market, and is designed to ensure that the markets for Nasdaq stocks open in a fair and orderly manner. Markets become locked and crossed when a market maker enters or maintains an "ask" price for a security that is the same or lower than the "bid" price of another market maker. Locked or crossed quotations may occur in fast-moving markets and can have significant impact on the opening of trading in newly offered securities. The rule requires firms that lock or cross the market during the time period between 9:20 a.m. to 9:30 a.m. EST to immediately send Trade or Move messages to the parties with whom it has locked or crossed. Firms receiving Trade or Move messages during this time period must, within 30 seconds of receipt, either execute the trade in full or move their quote to an unlocking price.

Compliance with the Trade or Move Rule is critically important to ensuring accurate pricing at the open of The Nasdaq Stock Market. The rule generally has been viewed, since its adoption in 2000, as having increased the ability of investors to get fair prices, increased market transparency, and improved price discovery in The Nasdaq Stock Market at the open.

The following firms were censured and fined a total of $120,000 by NASD Regulation for violations of the Trade or Move Rule:

- National Financial Services, L.L.C., $30,000 (includes a fine for locked and crossed violation during normal business hours);
- Windsor Capital Advisors, Inc., $20,000;
- Prudential Securities Incorporated, $20,000 (includes a fine for locked and crossed violation during normal business hours);
- Pershing Trading Company, L.P., $20,000;
- Gerard Klauer Mattison & Co., Inc., $10,000;
- BancBoston Robertson Stephens, $10,000; and
- J.P. Morgan Securities, Inc., $10,000.

These actions are the result of reviews conducted by the Trading Practices Section within NASD Regulation's Market Regulation Department. These firms have neither admitted nor denied the allegations, but have consented to the entry of findings pursuant to the settlements.

These disciplinary actions highlight NASD Regulation's commitment to enforce member compliance with trading rules essential to market quality and customer protection. NASD Regulation notes that industry-wide compliance with the Trade or Move Rule has improved considerably in recent periods of potential volatility, such as the September 2001 Expiration when equity, futures, and index options expired on the same date.
