Reported for July 2008

FINRA has taken disciplinary actions against the following firms and individuals for violations of NASD rules; federal securities laws, rules and regulations; and the rules of the Municipal Securities Rulemaking Board (MSRB).

American Funds Distributors, Inc. (CRD #6247, Los Angeles, California) was censured and fined $5,000,000. The National Adjudicatory Council (NAC) imposed the sanctions following appeal of an Office of Hearing Officers (OHO) decision. The sanctions were based on findings that the firm, as the principal underwriter and distributor of a family of mutual funds, requested and arranged for its parent company to direct a specific amount or percentage of brokerage commissions to other FINRA member firms conditioned upon their sales of the firm's mutual funds.

This decision has been appealed to the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), and the sanctions are not in effect pending consideration of the appeal. (FINRA Case #CE320050003)

Cowen and Company, LLC (CRD #7616, New York, New York) submitted a Letter of Acceptance, Waiver and Consent in which the firm was censured, fined $15,000 and required to revise its written supervisory procedures concerning market order protection and trade reporting. Without admitting or denying the findings, the firm consented to the described sanctions and to the entry of findings that it incorrectly reported the first leg of "riskless" principal transactions in designated securities to the FINRA/NASDAQ Trade Reporting Facility (TRF) because it incorrectly designated the capacity of the transactions as riskless or agent; and incorrectly reported the offsetting, "riskless" portion of "riskless" principal transactions in designated securities to the TRF because it incorrectly designated the capacity of the transactions as principal. The findings stated that the firm failed to report last sale reports of transactions in designated securities to the TRF, and incorrectly denoted a long sale as short exempt on its trading ledger. The findings also stated that the firm's supervisory system did not provide for supervision reasonably designed to achieve compliance with applicable securities laws, regulations and NASD rules concerning market order protection and trade reporting. (FINRA Case #20060061841-01)

The findings stated that the firm failed to implement a business continuity plan that addressed procedures relating to an emergency or significant business disruption. Letter of Caution. The findings stated that the firm received checks totaling $825,843.75 from public customers, placed the checks in a locked drawer rather than in a Special Reserve Bank Account for the Exclusive Benefit of Customers and failed to perform any reserve calculations regarding the checks that the firm held. The findings also stated that the firm failed to abide by the terms of its membership agreement with FINRA, failed to file a request to change its agreement with FINRA 30 days prior to making a material change in its business operations and engaged in business activities without maintaining the required minimum net capital. EKN Financial Services Inc. (CRD #113525, Woodbury, New York) submitted a Letter of Acceptance, Waiver and Consent in which the firm was censured and fined $80,000. Without admitting or denying the findings, the firm consented to the described sanctions and to the entry of findings that it failed to meet disclosure requirements for research reports; failed to include the required disclosures on the front page of reports in a prominent, clear and comprehensive manner; failed to provide a valuation method to determine the price target and a disclosure of risks that impeded achievement of price targets; failed to maintain records of public appearances by research analysts; failed to balance favorable discussions with disclosures of associated risks; failed to enforce its procedures for reviewing duplicate account statements for the accounts of its brokers, including research analysts, to detect an analyst's purchase of restricted stock; and failed to conduct an annual attestation that the firm had adopted and implemented its research analyst rule procedures.

The findings stated that the firm maintained inaccurate balances in its general ledger and trial balance, and filed inaccurate Financial and Operational Combined Uniform Single (FOCUS) reports. The findings also stated that the firm conducted a securities business while failing to maintain the required minimum net capital, and failed to timely file a FOCUS Part IIA report and an annual audit. The findings also included that the firm failed to amend or file Uniform Applications for Securities Industry Registration or Transfer (Forms U4) and Uniform Termination Notices for Securities Industry Registry (Forms U5), and filed Forms U5 late.

FINRA found that the firm failed to report customer complaints, employee suspensions and an arbitration, and filed reports late or inaccurately pursuant to the NASD Rule 3070 reporting system. FINRA also found that the firm failed to maintain or preserve order tickets and confirmations in connection with equity, corporate debt, short sales and mutual fund transactions. In addition, FINRA determined that the firm failed to preserve and maintain time of order receipt, solicitation status, associated registered representative and/or customer name, and execution price on order tickets for municipal, government security or corporate debt transactions. Moreover, FINRA found that the firm failed to preserve and maintain, in an accessible place, written incoming and outgoing correspondence. Furthermore, FINRA found that the firm indicated on confirmations that it was a market maker in a security when it was not. FINRA also found that the firm permitted $7,312.91 in excessive commissions to be charged in equity retail transactions, which the firm has since refunded to the affected customers. (FINRA Case #ELI2005000604)

Ferris, Baker Watts, Incorporated (CRD #285, Washington, DC) submitted a Letter of Acceptance, Waiver and Consent in which the firm was censured, fined $14,000 and required to revise its written supervisory procedures regarding SEC Rule 602 of Regulation NMS (the “one-percent rule”), NASD Rule 2320(g) (the “three-quote rule”), the prohibition against anti-intimidation/coordination, transaction reporting, the handling and transaction reporting of sale transactions, and books and records. Without admitting or denying the findings, the firm consented to the described sanctions and to the entry of findings that it incorrectly reported the second leg of riskless principal transactions in a designated security to the NASDAQ National Market Center (NMC) because it incorrectly designated the capacity of the transactions as principal; incorrectly reported riskless principal transactions in eligible securities to the NMC because it incorrectly reported the transactions as riskless principal when only a portion of the transactions was riskless; and incorrectly reported a riskless principal transaction in an eligible security to the NMC because it incorrectly reported the transaction as principal when a portion of the transaction was riskless.

The findings stated that the firm, when it acted as principal for its own account, failed to provide written notification disclosing to its customer that it was a market maker in the security; and failed to provide written notification disclosing to its customer that the transaction was executed at an average price. The findings also stated that the firm failed to show the correct price on the ledger itemizing purchases or sales of securities, and failed to show the terms and conditions on brokerage order memoranda. The findings also included that the firm made a report available on the covered orders in national market system securities that it received for execution from any person that included incorrect and incomplete SEC Rule 605 report information. FINRA found that the firm’s supervisory system did not provide for supervision reasonably designed to achieve compliance with applicable securities laws, regulations and NASD rules concerning SEC Rule 602 of Regulation NMS, NASD Rule 2320(g), the prohibition against anti-intimidation/ coordination, transaction reporting, the handling and transaction reporting of sale transactions, and books and records. (FINRA Case #20050004861-01)

Fixed Income Securities, LP nka Advisors Asset Management, Inc. (CRD #46727, Monument, Colorado) submitted a Letter of Acceptance, Waiver and Consent in which the firm was censured, fined $15,000, ordered to pay $1,038.64, plus interest, in restitution to customers, and required to revise its written supervisory procedures concerning fair prices and commissions. Satisfactory proof of restitution or of reasonable and documented efforts undertaken to effect restitution was to be provided to FINRA no later than 120 days after acceptance of the AWC. Without admitting or denying the findings, the firm consented to the described sanctions and to the entry of findings that it purchased municipal securities for its own account from customers and/or sold municipal securities for its own account to customers at an aggregate price (including any markdown or markup) that was not fair and reasonable, taking into consideration all relevant factors, including the best judgment of the broker, dealer or municipal securities dealer as to the fair market value of the securities at the time of the transactions, and of any securities exchanged or traded in connection with the transactions, the expense involved in effecting the transactions, the fact that the broker, dealer or municipal securities dealer is entitled to a profit and the total dollar amount of the transactions. The findings stated that the firm's supervisory system did not provide for supervision reasonably designed to achieve compliance with applicable securities laws, regulations and MSRB rules concerning fair prices and commissions. (FINRA Case #20050001658-01)

HSBC Securities (USA), Inc. (CRD #19585, New York, New York) submitted a Letter of Acceptance, Waiver and Consent in which the firm was censured and fined $200,000. Without admitting or denying the findings, the firm consented to the described sanctions and to the entry of findings that customers who maintained escrow accounts with the firm's bank affiliate were charged commissions—which were higher than the commissions charged in the past, and, in certain instances, higher than the industry standard—for fixed income securities trades the firm executed on the customers' behalf. The findings stated that the firm failed to take adequate steps to assess the fairness of these commissions and the higher commission charges were premised on the provision of a former registered representative's additional services to the customers when, in fact, he did not provide such services. The findings also stated that the firm lacked adequate written guidelines for markups and commissions on trades for fixed income products, and failed to establish and maintain adequate procedures to monitor the appropriateness of commissions charged to these customers in that the firm: a) failed to establish adequate written guidelines for markups and commissions on fixed income products; b) failed to give adequate guidance as to what factors should be considered in determining what is a fair markup or commission on fixed income products; c) failed to include trades executed for the customers in branch examination reviews; and d) failed to establish reasonable procedures for monitoring fixed income security markups and commissions. (FINRA Case # 2007009471401)

Without admitting or denying the findings, the firm consented to the described sanctions and to the entry of findings that it sold or bought corporate bonds to or from customers and failed to sell or buy the bonds at a price that was fair, taking into consideration all relevant circumstances, including market conditions with respect to each bond at the time of the transaction, the expense involved and that the firm was entitled to a profit. The findings stated that the firm failed to enforce its written supervisory procedures that specified that no exceptions from its markup/markdown schedule may be made without prior approval of the senior trading manager or sales manager, and that the basis for a markup/markdown in excess of the firm's internal schedule should be demonstrated and documented. (FINRA Case #20060042695-01)

Without admitting or denying the findings, Zitch, Massaux and Parker consented to the described sanctions and to the entry of findings that Massaux and Parker facilitated a hedge fund customer's use of deceptive practices to engage in market timing of mutual fund shares. The findings stated that Massaux and Parker executed trades for the customer through multiple accounts, which used multiple partnership names and traded through multiple registered representative numbers. The findings also stated that these activities allowed the hedge fund customer to avoid detection of its market timing activities by mutual fund companies in many instances, and to circumvent numerous restrictions on additional trading the companies imposed. The findings also included that Zitch failed to adequately supervise Massaux and Parker, and should have known that they were engaged in deceptive market timing practices.

Zitch's suspension in a principal capacity was in effect from June 2, 2008, through July 1, 2008. Massaux' and Parkers' suspensions in any capacity are in effect from May 27, 2008, through August 26, 2008. (FINRA Cases #2006004542201/2006004542202)

GunnAllen Financial Pays $750,000 to Settle Charges Involving Former Head Trader's Trade Allocation Scheme, AML and Supervisory Deficiencies, Additional Charges Supervisor of Rogue Trader Suspended and Fined; Firm Also Lacked Procedures to Prevent Misuse of Investment Banking Information

FINRA has fined GunnAllen Financial, Inc., of Tampa, FL $750,000 for its role in a trade allocation scheme conducted by the firm's former head trader, as well as for various Anti-Money Laundering (AML), reporting, record-keeping and supervisory deficiencies. Kelley McMahon, the former head trader's supervisor, was suspended for six months from association with any FINRA-registered firm in any principal capacity and fined $25,000, jointly and severally with the firm.

FINRA barred Alexis J. Rivera, the former head trader, in connection with the trade allocation scheme, in December 2006. FINRA found that in 2002 and 2003, the firm, acting through Rivera, engaged in a "cherry picking" scheme in which Rivera allocated profitable stock trades to his wife's personal account instead of to the accounts of firm customers. Rivera garnered improper profits of more than $270,000 through this misconduct, which violated the anti-fraud provisions of the federal securities laws and FINRA rules. Rivera was barred in December 2006.

"Broker-dealers have an obligation to supervise their registered representatives with a view to preventing them from engaging in conduct that violates fundamental rules, such as the anti-fraud provisions of the federal securities laws," said Susan Merrill, FINRA Executive Vice President and Chief of Enforcement. "The supervisory deficiencies here permitted the firm's trader to perpetrate a scheme that allowed him to benefit at the expense of the firm's customers, and contributed to serious violations in other areas of the firm's business. One such area was the investment banking department, where the firm's failures resulted in an absence of procedures to prevent the misuse of material, non-public information."

In connection with the firm's investment banking business, FINRA found that prior to March 2005, GunnAllen never put any stock of a company on a restricted or watch list even though the firm was conducting investment banking business with these companies. During the same period, GunnAllen failed to inform its own compliance department of the investment banking activities in which the firm was involved.

FINRA also sanctioned GunnAllen for failing to report to FINRA that its parent firm had entered into a consulting contract with an individual who had been previously barred by FINRA. In addition, the firm was sanctioned for failing to preserve e-mails and instant messages, for failing to implement an adequate AML compliance program and for supervisory and complaint reporting deficiencies. Supervisory deficiencies included a failure to ensure that markups and commissions charged on equity transactions were reasonable. In reviewing markups on equity transactions, the firm did little more than ensure that commission charges did not exceed 5 percent. GunnAllen and McMahon settled these matters without admitting or denying the allegations, but consented to the entry of FINRA's findings.

FINRA Fines Three Firms a Total of $1.6 Million for OATS Reporting and Supervision Violations

The Financial Industry Regulatory Authority (FINRA) has fined TradeStation Securities, Inc., E*Trade Securities, LLC and CIBC World Markets Corp. a total of $1.6 million for multi-year violations relating to FINRA's Order Audit Trail System (OATS) rules and related supervisory failures.

Under the OATS rules, firms must report information related to the handling and execution of customer orders, as well as for certain proprietary orders for Nasdaq and OTC Equity securities. This information allows FINRA to recreate the life cycle of an order and is critical to effective regulation.

"Firms must be vigilant in monitoring the accuracy and completeness of the data they provide to regulators and each firm must ensure that it reports all required order information, no matter which desk receives or handles the order," said Tom Gira, Executive Vice President of FINRA's Market Regulation Department.

TradeStation Securities, Inc. was fined $750,000 for failing to report approximately 23.5 million Reportable Order Events relating to orders received. E*Trade Securities was fined $500,000 for failing to report "New Order Reports" and "Route Reports." CIBC was fined $350,000 for failing to report to OATS over 28 million orders which were generated by an affiliate.

FINRA further found that the three firms did not have adequate systems of supervision in place to monitor their OATS reporting compliance.

The fine for CIBC was reduced in recognition of the firm's actions in reporting the problem to FINRA and taking prompt remedial actions to correct the problem. In settling these matters, the firms neither admitted nor denied the charges, but consented to the entry of FINRA's findings.
