I want a more transparent market for retail investors. Live accurate data that isn't 2-30 days delayed and partially reported. It is a distinct disadvantage that retail has when it only gets part of the picture. I also would like to see more regulations and stiffer penalties on naked short selling. The fines that are handed out for FTDs and naked short selling are a drop in the bucket to these big firms who likely profited much more than the fines cost them through their illegal market actions. I think these people need to see jail time. They are actively hurting the market and damaging the trust between the American people and the American financial system.

Thank you,

Andrew
