SEC, FINRA,

Here is my comment you've recently requested,

I'm an international investor from London, England. As I see it, the current US market is nothing but a fraud, regulatory agencies being complicit. They are complicit through their complacency, with years of unchecked fraud and assisting with blatant financial crime. The SEC and FINRA have known about various market manipulation with nothing being done to rectify the illegality of the market conditions. Naked short selling only scratches the service and the result of the this financial crime will be devastating. As an investor I want TRANSPARENCY. This has been going on for decades will it ever stop?
