Naked shorting is legitimately an illegal practice. The fact that I have to state this is ridiculous. Yet it continues to happen on the markets directly at times and other times via dark pools. It is time that someone does something about it before the world loses faith in our financial system. That would be chaotic.

Do we want to fix this? Yes?

A simple real time report of short positions would create transparency and therefore make illegal practices harder to commit. Perhaps no more naked shorting.

Just a comment,

Thank you
