Why isn't Citadel being investigated? The retail investor has been continuously screwed over with their actions and nothing is being done. They have been investigated in the past, the SEC collects the fine but what about the money that was lost by the people they continue to beat down? This isn't 2020 anymore, the retail investor is waking up, we now see what's going on and want it stopped. Of course I feel as if I'm just a big nobody, who's going to listen to me? There are hundreds of young adults out there doing the research and bringing all of this to light. Catch it before the SEC looks just as guilty as Citadel for letting them continue these practices after you've fined them. Thank you for your time.
