

From: Baban Zarah
To: Comments, Public
Subject: FINRA request for comments on day trading
Date: Monday, November 4, 2024 8:23:42 AM

WARNING: External Sender! Exercise caution with links, attachments and requests for login information.

Hello,

I am writing to suggest changes to FINRA's Pattern Day Trader (PDT) rule. The current $25,000 minimum balance unfairly limits small investors while giving wealthier traders a significant advantage. A more reasonable minimum balance, such as the $2,000 required to open a margin account, would make day trading more accessible and reduce the need for risky overnight holds.

Removing the three-day trade limit for those meeting this $2,000 minimum would allow all investors to manage their risk more effectively and participate fairly in the market. Thank you for considering this adjustment.

Regards,
Baban