To whom it may concern:

I am writing to implore you to take action to level the playing field for ALL investors.

As an investor and a citizen, I am tired of the government allowing Wall Street to play by their own rules. We are all well aware of the nefarious activities that Wall Street is engaged in and I simply want some assurances that going forward, the SEC or some government institution will step up for the American citizen.

I get that the SEC has a personal conflict of interest as these folks are there friends and future employers. I understand that you have to provide for your families, but I'm tired of having paid officials sit and do NOTHING as the average American suffers.

I want to know who wagered $1.7 million dollars on a bet that Bear Stearns would collapse within 9 days during the previous crisis?

Please provide us with the transparency that we deserve. Stop the practice of naked shorting!

If you decide to take this serious and need help where to look, don't hesitate to contact me.

Yours truly,
Mark Glor
