Something has to be done about the dark pools, manipulation, and naked shorts. This isn't many a man that even remotely thinks the market is a fair play for retail investors. Many millions will never invest again after so much has been brought to light by the meme traders. Hedge fund corruption will never end until the fines the fines are more than what they would've lost playing by the rules, or if people start ending up in jail. There shouldn't be a different set of laws for them vs. us.

Thankyou,
