Hi FINRA,

I am writing about the short sale comments you were looking to receive from the public. Mainly what the public wants is fairness. When you don't pay attention to the massive amount of negative shorting occurring with large institutions and hedge funds, you're giving them an advantage they didn't need and shouldn't have. Make sure companies are trading legally, and if not, force them to cover short positions within the hour, if not, by the end of the day. Stop giving out pathetic fines to companies who make billions of dollars a year, that's nothing to them. Send people to the law enforcement and allow them to serve prison time.

IF THE ONLY PUNISHMENT FOR BREAKING THE RULES IS A FINE BY THE REGULATORY AGENCY, IT'S NOT A PUNISHMENT, IT'S A COST OF DOING BUSINESS AND THE REGULATORY AGENCY IS TAKING THEIR CUT.

Thank you,

Stephan Davis
