

This is the worst news ever. This would make Forex worthless... in the US anyway... Correct to assume that high leverage would continue in the rest of the world?

Please leave Forex alone it operates in a world wide market if any constraints are put on by government the playing field is not level

The governments involvement in other security markets has not been successful, in fact, it is the main cause of the world wide recession
So please leave something that is working alone

Sincerely

Dave Sabo