Background and Discussion

On March 6, 2007, the SEC approved amendments to Rule 7030 (until recently Rule 7010(k)), which sets forth certain fees related to NASD’s Trade Reporting and Compliance Engine (TRACE). Specifically, the rule changes lower the fee related to the receipt of real-time TRACE transaction data by persons opting to receive the data once a day (Snapshot TRACE data), which will be limited to one TRACE price per security per day rather than made available on a continuous basis. A person choosing to receive Snapshot TRACE data (a Snapshot TRACE data subscriber) will pay $250 per month for the receipt of Snapshot TRACE data rather than paying $1,500 per month to receive TRACE data continuously throughout the day.
A Snapshot TRACE data subscriber will be able to choose the specific time of day it will receive Snapshot TRACE data each day; however, it is expected that certain market participants will choose to receive Snapshot TRACE data at or shortly after 4:00 p.m. each day and use it to value certain positions held in their investment portfolios. The reduced fee for Snapshot TRACE data is intended to be better aligned with the more tailored information requirements of a subset of market participants that today are foregoing TRACE data at the higher costs per month for continuous TRACE data. For example, to date, no institutional buy-side participants have subscribed for the receipt of TRACE data continuously throughout the day for portfolio valuation purposes. As is the case today with the distribution of TRACE desktop data, NASD will work with third-party re-transmission vendors to distribute Snapshot TRACE data to market participants.

Frequently asked questions regarding the new Snapshot TRACE data program are available on NASD’s Web site at www.nasd.com/trace.
